

Carl E. Hamilton
President
The Jockey Club Information Systems Inc.

Carl Hamilton has been president of The Jockey Club Information Systems Inc. (TJCIS) since 1994. TJCIS is an industry leader in technology and information services for industry professionals, including owners, breeders, trainers, veterinarians, and farm personnel.

Hamilton joined TJCIS in 1990 as vice president of the consulting division. He previously owned Hamilton Software, a software consulting firm that developed industry-leading farm management software packages and provided consulting services to Thoroughbred-related organizations.

In October 2007, Hamilton succeeded Louis Romanet as chairman of the International Federation of Horseracing Authorities' International Grading and Race Planning Advisory Committee. He had been appointed joint vice chairman in 2003. He served as secretary of the International Catalogue Standards Committee from 1999 through 2007.

In 2015 TJCIS purchased a majority interest in BloodHorse, at which time Hamilton was appointed chairman.

Hamilton has spoken on the subject of technology at a number of industry conferences worldwide, including The Jockey Club Round Table Conference, the International Conference of Horseracing Authorities, and the Japan Racing Association's International Forum.

A native of Owensboro, Ky., Hamilton lives in Lexington, Ky.
