

Steve Kornacki
Chief Data Analyst
NBC News

Steve Kornacki is the chief data analyst for NBC News. He appears regularly on “Meet the Press,” “Today,” and other news platforms and is a near-constant on-air presence during election seasons and on election nights, when he uses an interactive touchscreen to convey real-time results from key counties and precincts across the country. He also contributes to NBC Sports’ coverage of the NFL, Olympics, and major horse racing events, including the Kentucky Derby, Royal Ascot, and the Breeders’ Cup.

Originally from Massachusetts, Kornacki began his career as a reporter in New Jersey. He is the author of the book, “The Red and the Blue: The 1990s and the Birth of Political Tribalism,” and the host of “The Revolution,” a six-part podcast series tracing the rise of Newt Gingrich and the transformation of Congress.
